..... MISUNDERSTOOD BY MOST

..... IRRESISTABLE TO THOSE WHO MEET HER

Traveler, explorer, historian, adventurer and motion picture reporter: a few of the many talents KEN WOLFGANG brings into play in his latest color film. BAJA, UNCUT JEWEL OF THE PACIFIC. His unique subjective-camera style polishes this rough gem, exposing all the hidden and unknown qualities which made it:

- ... a thousand-mile peninsular paradise dotted with crystal clear coves, warm beaches whose serene expanses of sand have seldom known the touch of a human foot, and semi-tropical waters where some of the world's finest fishing awaits the adventuresome angler.
- ... a thousand-mile peninsula of enigmas, where vast deserts and cool, inviting oases tantalize the curious with some of Mother Nature's strangest phenomena.
- ... a thousand-mile peninsula of precipitous mountain ranges where only the most daring hunters challenge the forbidding canyons in search of the mighty "El Tigre".
- ... a thousand-mile wonderland of delightful, bustling cities, where "Free Port" shops and luxurious, modern resorts cater to the wants and needs of every tourist; where quaint, sleepy villages still carry on the traditions of ancient arts and industries.
